Cattle and sheep udder heating system to increase milking and disinfection

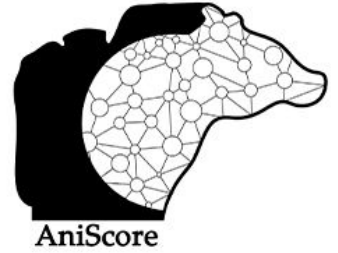

www.aniscoree.com

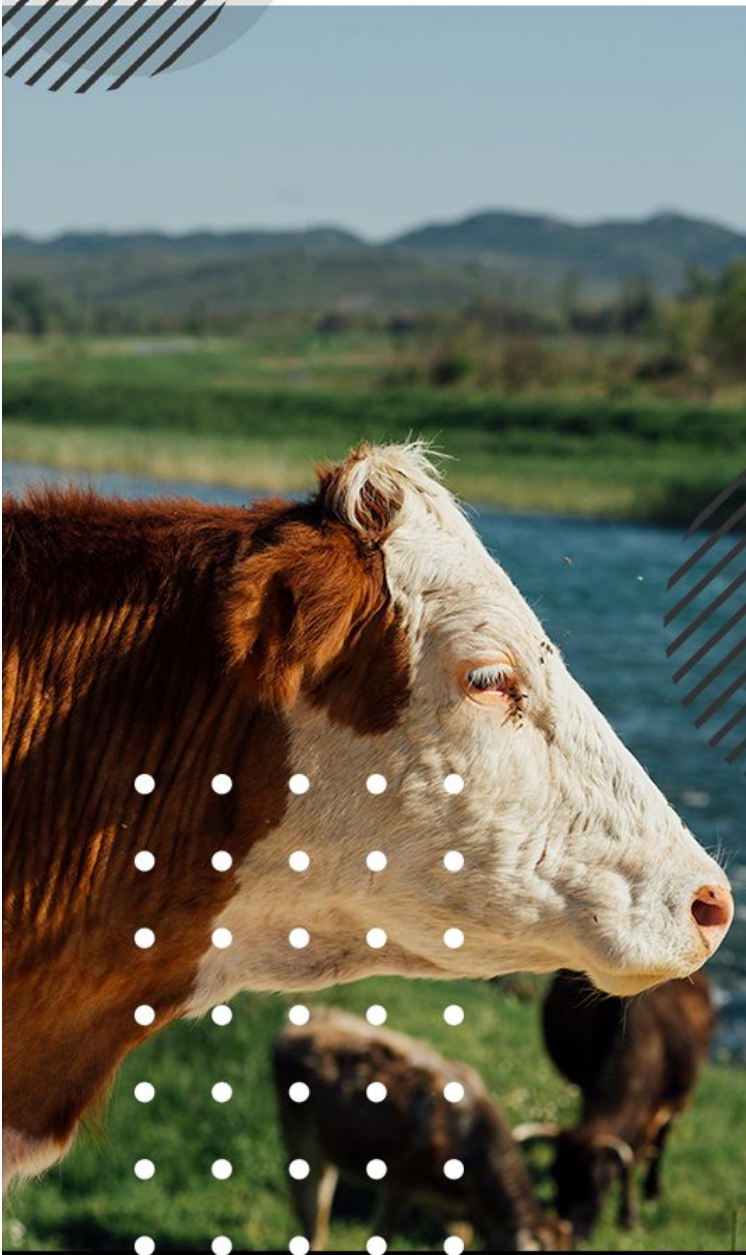

AniScore is a wearable product that is zipped around the udder of cows and sheep and is tied in the form of ropes on the waist to increase the lactation of cows and protect the cow's udder from contamination and cold weather, and show the right time to milk cows.

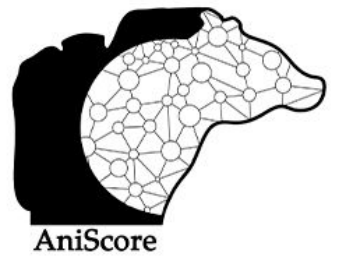

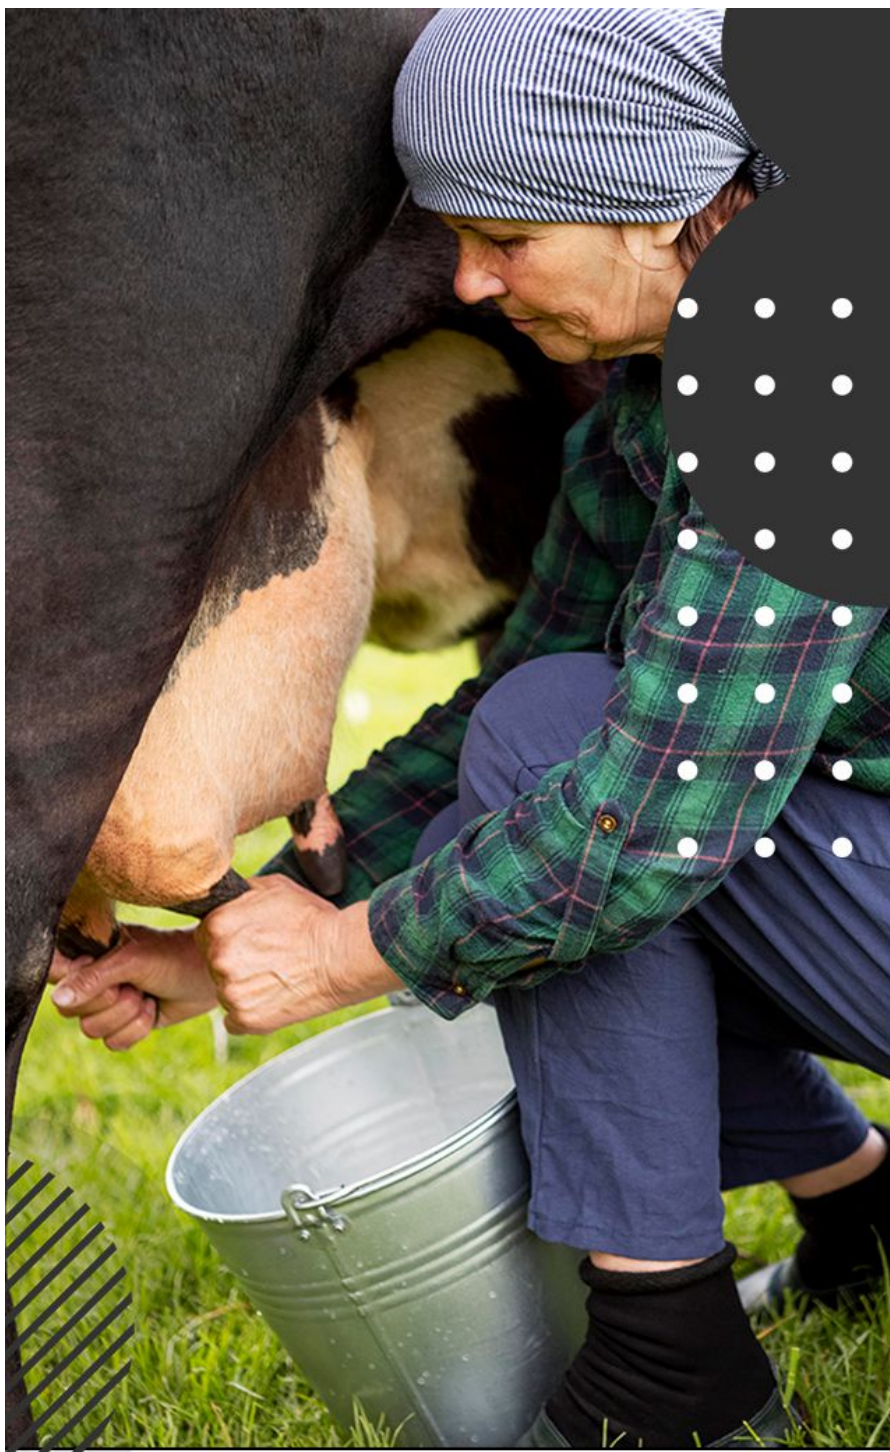

Innovative points

- 1.The heating system, which uses a thermo-electric cooler and heating pipes that transfer heat to the cow's udder.
- 2.The udder covering, which has two zipped layers and is adjustable on the base of udder volume.
- 3.The control system that electronically regulates the desired temperature for the udder of cows or sheep, and shows the suitable time to milk.
